Conference participants come from Italy, Belgium, Brasil, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Malta, Poland and the United States. The presence of monks from Italy and abroad testifies the vital attention which the monastic world devotes to liturgical themes.

Already in its sixth year, the International Liturgical Conference at Bose provides for an annual encounter of scholars and scientists of world renown, belonging to different Christian churches, who confront topics related to the relationship between liturgy and architecture, and offer a vast public composed of theologians, liturgical experts, architects, artists, stakeholders in church architecture and interested laymen, an opportunity for joint reflection inspired by a desire to know the value, semantics and symbolic implications of Christian liturgical spaces.

The Conference Scientific Committee – composed of Enzo Bianchi (Bose), Stefano Russo (Rome), Goffredo Boselli (Bose), Frédéric Debuyst (Louvain-la-Neuve), Paul De Clerck (Paris-Brussels), Albert Gerhards (Bonn), Angelo Lamerti (Rome) Keith Pecklers (Rome-New York), Giancarlo Santi (Milan).

The selection of this year's topic, the Holy Assembly, follows in the wake of reflections carried out during these years. The introductory reflections of Frédéric DEBUYST, foremost expert in Europe on the relationship between liturgy and architecture, will outline the framework of the Conference; his intervention is entitled «Living Assembly: A Fulness Ever Incomplete». It will be followed by an examination of the forms of assembly: Giuseppe BUSANI, liturgist and President of the Associazione Professori di Liturgia dell' Italia, will show how from an anthropological point of view, the assembly is made up of bodies called to form one sole body. The historical approach of Giuliano ZANCHI, director of the Diocesan Museum of Bergamo, will demonstrate the different typologies of assembly arising from different topographies of the liturgical space in the course of centuries. The intervention of Gordon LATHROP, ecclesiologist from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, will in its turn demonstrate how different models of assembly correspond to precise church models. Particular attention will be given to the singular configuration of liturgical space in ancient Syriac churches, through the intervention of Sebastià JANERAS, of the Facultat de Teologia de Catalunya (Barcelona), one of the greatest experts on liturgy and architecture in the ancient Syriac church.

The holy assembly is also an epiphany of presence. The intervention of Jean-Yves LACOSTE (College of Blandings) examines the philosophical and theological concept of 'presence' in ancient and contemporary thinking. André WENIN (Belgium), Biblical scholar from the Catholic University of Louvain-la-Neuve, will present Biblical data on the evolution of the presence of God in history. Within the theme of the presence, ample reflection will be devoted to the eucharistic reservation. Nathan MITCHELL (USA), from the University of Notre Dame, will examine the history of the tabernacle, as a particular form in which the Catholic tradition venerates the eucharistic gifts, while the renowned liturgist Robert TAFT will present the forms of veneration of the eucharist in the Orthodox traditions.

Within the plurality of presence, the liturgical presidency is a constitutive and essential element of the Christian eucharist. Louis-Marie CHAUVET (France), renowned theologian and liturgist from the Institut Catholique de Paris, will analyse the meaning of liturgical presidency, while Albert GERHARDS, liturgist at the University of Bonn will demonstrate the theological implications of the bishopric throne and presbyter seat. At the end of the conference, Paul DE CLERCK (Institut Catholique de Paris) will proceed with a synthesis of the conclusions of the conference.

In the course of the conference there will be a presentation of the most important historical and contemporary thrones and seats, and also of eucharistic reservations present in principal European geographical areas. At the end of the inaugural session the official presentation will take place of the Proceedings of last year's Vth Conference: G. Boselli (ed.), Il Battistero, Edizioni Qiqajon, Magnano 2008.
